Sitnasuak’s future is Bright

DIRECTOR MARK ALLRED ON BEHALF OF THE COMMUNICATIONS COMMITTEE

DIVIDENDS ARE UP AND CONSISTENT

The decision by the Board of Directors of Sitnasuak Native Corporation to distribute higher dividends reflects confidence in the Corporation’s long-term cash flow. It’s the belief of many Board members that we must maximize shareholder wealth. We believe we are equipped as a Board to fund potentially profitable investments while we evaluate new initiatives meant to improve the social well-being of our shareholders.

Dividends are higher because of the performance of our executive management team and the decisions that the current Board has made to diversify our Corporation’s lines of business. Data is available on shareholder dividends for the last 34 years of Sitnasuak’s operations. While there are different explanations for the fact that no shareholder dividends were paid in some years, such as 1986, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, and 2004, what is notable is the Board has consistently voted to distribute a significant amount of cash in the form of shareholder and Elder dividends in the last decade.

Elders have received a supplemental dividend for the past 3 years at the rate of an additional $500 per Elder. Other initiatives intended to demonstrate our commitment to shareholder well-being include scholarships, heating fuel discounts, discounted rental prices in Nome, and the bereavement program. The Corporation is not simply distributing cash; rather, many of our decisions show that the current Board of Directors believes in enriching the lives of our shareholders.

Despite significant distributions, Sitnasausak only distributed 24% of net income in 2015. The average payout ratio for the last four years was 33% of net income. This is well within the conservative norm. We are retaining more than enough net income to grow the company, which is illustrated by our strong balance sheet.

DIVERSIFICATION CREATES STABILITY

SNC, in its early years, placed too much emphasis on one or two business lines. While we had some good years we also had some bad years. To bring stability to the Corporation the Board made a commitment to diversify our business lines and not depend so heavily on the performance of our government contracting businesses in Puerto Rico. Now we have four strong pillars – Apparel Manufacturing, Financial Services, Fuel Distribution and Real Estate. As with many successful corporations, higher dividends can be directly tied to the diversification of the company. SNC, in 2016, is a diversified shareholder-owned company.

A BRIGHT FUTURE

Sitnasausak has many challenges ahead, but the four business lines should help SNC to weather the upcoming financial challenges that Alaska finds itself in due to lower oil prices and reduced production levels as the North Slope oil fields continue to age.

The tireless work of the Board of Directors and its executive management team see a bright future for Sitnasausak Native Corporation. We are more transparent then we have ever been in the past 43 years, and the Board’s business experience and acumen will benefit all shareholders, now and into the future.

Message from the Chairman

BOBBY EVANS

Hello Fellow Shareholders,

I send greetings to you and your families from SNC headquarters in Nome. Spring is in the air and soon we will be camping, fishing and enjoying our land.

Fiscal year 2015 was another successful year for Sitnasuak as we continued to build revenues and profits. We made operational changes that improved profitability and set our course for the future. Our profits are returned to shareholders through regular and Elder’s dividends, scholarships, bereavement benefits, and fuel and rental discounts. We also were able to contribute funding to the Community of Nome through tax-credit eligible donations to Nome Public Schools, City of Nome and the Kawerak Cultural Center.

We are becoming a great partner in our community and building a company that is changing our future. As our economy heads toward tougher times, building partnerships is the key to success for our people. Our partnership with the City of Nome is an example of working together. Our shareholders and descendants that live here in Nome use the services that the City of Nome offers, such as Nome Public Schools. Our partnership with the City of Nome benefits our people.

We will also continue to look for new ways to assist shareholders that live throughout Alaska. We are looking at how we can support our shareholders and their descendants in all the communities where we live. If you have any ideas, please share them with us. We want to help.

Sitnasuak is on a great path. The last six years have seen us move into new lines of business such as financial services. We continue to reduce our dependence on government contracting through diversification closer to home. Our Title Companies in Anchorage/MatSu and our property endeavors (Tudor Bingo and Rilke Schule) in Anchorage have all been great investments. We are building upon our strengths to continue the progress made the last couple years. I want to thank all Directors, Management and all Staff for all their hard work towards this success.

It is election time again. Soon we will be hosting our annual meeting in Nome and we are looking forward to reporting our success. We also have been hosting shareholder informational sessions in Anchorage, Nome and Teller. We understand the need to reach out more and engage with shareholders. This is a great opportunity to share our achievements, meet and greet, visit and listen to shareholder concerns.

Shareholders have an opportunity to, not only vote for three Directors, but also give input on eight proposals. These proposals give shareholders unprecedented opportunity to provide advisory input toward the future of our corporation. Your vote counts. I am happy to see so many candidates running for the Board – this means shareholders are paying attention and getting involved. Good luck to all those running!

It is an honor and privilege to serve you as Chairman of the Board. I take this responsibility with great pride and honor. I will continue to work with Management and the Board of Directors to stay on the path of profitability, keep looking to diversify, and keep reaching out to shareholders. Each member of the Board of Directors works very hard and always has the shareholders – wherever you may live – in mind when we make our decisions.

Thank you for your continuing support and confidence. Please keep in touch and if you have any comments or questions, please email me at bevans@snc.org. And keep up to date via our website – www.snc.org

Quyanna and God Bless,
Robert (Bobby) Evans

Spring Greetings, Shareholders:

By now, many of you will have received your 2015 Annual Report and have heard about what a great year we had. We experienced growth in revenues to $116.9 million, as well as growth in net income to $6.3 million. We experienced balanced growth and we are continuing our efforts to be a diversified company.

I would also like to highlight that we continued our trend of returning value to our shareholders, through our dividends and community contributions. I’m proud of our success in 2015, despite the substantial headwinds that faced both Alaska and Puerto Rico. As we look to 2016 and beyond, we’ll continue to build upon our strengths and share in our success.

Additionally, I wanted to report that we had a great Shareholder Outreach and Informational Session in Anchorage on April 30th, and heard many relevant suggestions about the course our corporation should take. The one that resonated most with me is the need to incorporate our Iñupiaq Values into our businesses. While we are successful financially, we can improve on spreading our values throughout the company – as they are the foundation of our strength and success.

I am proud of Sitnasuak, and the achievements of our team. I also look forward to seeing as many of you as possible in the coming weeks, to share more details about our financial performance in 2015.

Enjoy your spring and I want to thank you in advance if you can make it to the Annual Meeting in Nome on June 4th.

Respectfully,
Michael Orr

Many corporations around the world look to a set of corporate values to guide a company’s internal conduct and culture as well as its relationships with customers, partners, and shareholders. “Hard work” is one of Sitnasuak Native Corporation’s core values, and given the life of Sitnasuak Native Corporation’s 2016 Elder of the Year, Robert K. Joe, Sr. it becomes clear that a core value like hard work is more than a slogan. Our original incorporators, like our ancestors from the Nome area, worked hard and worked together.

Robert K. Joe, Sr. was born on July 13, 1927 to Imatuq and David Joe, and was raised at Pilgrim Hot Springs from the age of 2 ½ until the age of 14. In 1940, Henry Kost asked Robert to travel from Nome to North Pole as a summertime employee. Robert went on to work at the Nome Grill, as a dishwasher and laborer at Marks Army Air Field, and as a heavy equipment operator driving Oshkosh trucks until he was drafted into the US military. He was stationed in Anchorage for two years, where he worked with ammunition. After he was discharged, he worked for a munitions inspector, and was promoted to foreman—before moving back to Nome to build roads for the Alaska Road Commission for several years. Robert also waited tables at the Bering Sea bar and restaurant. He then was a delivery worker for Bronson Water, carrying 2.5-gallon buckets to homes in the days before Nome had water and sewer.

Robert married Ruth Oxereok, who was born and raised in Wales, in 1966. Their son Billy Joe was born on January 17, 1966. Robert Joe, Jr. was born on January 20, 1967 and John Joe was born on December 14, 1967. It is said that the sons were so close in age that Nomeites often called them by the nickname of “the Three Musketeers.”

Along with Charles Fagerstrom, Myrtle Johnson, Frances Longley, and Jerome Trigg, Robert K. Joe, Sr. was one of the signers of the original articles of incorporation for Sitnasuak Native Corporation. Sitnasuak was incorporated on February 9, 1973, but like the other signatories, he served on the first Sitnasuak Board of Directors for almost two years, from December of 1972 to January of 1974.

Sitnasuak supports the
NOME EMERGENCY SHELTER SYSTEM

Bridie Trainor says, “Sitnasuak’s contribution to the Nome Emergency Shelter Team (NEST) helped the shelter to stay open from November through April. For the nearly 200 individuals who stayed at the shelter over the course of this winter, your donation has made a world of difference. Just as Sitnasuak serves our communities region wide, more than half of our shelter guests, including elders and young adults, are from villages outside of Nome. Sitnasuak’s contribution to NEST serves our region as a whole, helping our shareholders’ children, families, schools, law enforcement and emergency services work together to build healthier communities. Quyanna!”
Sitnasuak Native Corporation and The City of Nome are pleased to announce that they have reached the principal terms of an agreement exchanging two lots in the Nome Townsite for 12 acres of land housing the White Alice Towers on Anvil Mountain. Doing so will allow the City to receive title to the White Alice Site on Anvil Mountain. The status of the site has been in question since the towers were decommissioned by the United States Air Force over thirty years ago.

The agreement will sanction Sitnasuak Native Corporation to serve as a “pass-through” for the City to acquire the site under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act. For doing so, the City has agreed to fully indemnify Sitnasuak and provide two highly-desirable undeveloped lots in the General Use District of the Nome Townsite.

Sitnasuak Native Corporation President Michael Orr, Sitnasuak Land Manager David Evans, City of Nome Mayor Richard Beneville, City of Nome Utility Manager John Handeland, and City Manager Thomas Moran collaborated on the agreement for nearly six months before it was finally ratified by both the Sitnasuak Native Corporation Board of Directors and the City Council. The agreement marks the beginning of a series of partnerships that are envisioned by the organizations’ management, including a project involving the Eskimo Cemetery. A celebratory picnic to commemorate the land deal is scheduled for Friday, May 27th.

John Handeland cites the “historical value” of the towers, which were initially built in 1958 for military purposes during the Cold War. After the towers were constructed, Nome residents no longer had to rely exclusively on the city’s one phone connection to Fairbanks to call outside of Nome. “The [new] connection to Nome was by means of a large-capacity telephone cable laid on the ground on the west side of the Nome-Teller Road, and then up the mountain to the site.” Nome residents have considered the site part of the Nome landscape for nearly 60 years. He adds, “they have served as navigation aids to hunters on the ice and pilots flying into the community.”

Handeland also says, “through the renewed cooperative effort between SNC and the City, these last remaining antennas will continue to adorn the skyline north of Nome. When the final conveyance is made, it will allow for potential further development of the site for recreation and sightseeing by residents and visitors alike.”

When asked about access to the 12 acre site, he assures, “I am certain the City and SNC will work together on ways to develop the site and allow for increased visitor, community and shareholder enjoyment, while still protecting the surrounding lands along the access corridor. Now that the question – which has been open for over 25 years – has been settled and the antennas will remain, working to improve and maintain access will become a priority.”

City Manager Tom Moran says, “The White Alice communication system initially consisted of 31 sites across Alaska. Today, the towers on Anvil Mountain are the last vestiges of that bygone era. An important attraction for our tourism industry, the towers also serve as an important reminder of the military history of our region.” He, too, is hopeful about future collaborations: “Though Sitnasuak’s primary concern is for its shareholders, while the City’s primary concern is for its citizens, both organizations are keenly interested in improving the quality of life in our region. The City’s negotiations with Sitnasuak on the White Alice land transfer were extremely positive, as both organizations collaborated to accomplish what was best for each other’s long-term goals.”
2015 was a good year for Sitnasuak. Consolidated pre-tax income increased nearly 77% at $8,983,079, which is nearly $4 million more than 2014. Total net income attributable to Sitnasuak Native Corporation was $6,278,666. Sitnasuak was able to distribute 24% of this net income, or $1,508,482, to Sitnasuak shareholders. The total assets of Sitnasuak Native Corporation grew to $123,730,138, with $17.7 million (over 14%) held in cash. Total shareholder equity grew to $68,368,008, exceeding total liabilities, and accounted for 55% of total assets.

Sitnasuak has four primary business units. Each business unit manager creates a budget for the upcoming year and manages daily operations in a way that maximizes income potential. These budget and management approaches make sure that each of Sitnasuak Native Corporation’s businesses fulfills operational plans and creates shareholder value.

Business Unit Income (BUI) is one of the most important ways to measure budget performance. BUI can be determined by looking at operating income before factoring in depreciation (the reduction in value of assets as they age, which is a non-cash expense) and allocation of corporate general & administrative costs.

Some of the most interesting comparisons between current and prior year BUI numbers include:

- 2015 Apparel Manufacturing BUI was up by nearly $3.3 million over its recorded loss of $(793,324) in 2014.

The increase in 2015 income for Apparel Manufacturing is due, in large part, to increased Federal demand for apparel. This demand picked up again in 2015 after the end of a long Federal process to finalize the new camouflage pattern for its uniforms.

Fuel Distribution and Real Estate were down $940,943 and $775,231 respectively in 2015 vs. 2014. The income decrease for Fuel Distribution can be traced back to 2014’s higher priced fuel inventories that carried over to 2015. This, in turn, reduced fuel margins. A property sale in 2014 overshadowed expanded operations in 2015, including 2015’s rental income increases.

All of this outlines a very important fact; Sitnasuak maintains a diverse group of profitable business units. We have expanded our core competencies over the past five years to cover more industries. The fact that we are profitable in all areas shows that we have a broad base of managerial talent.

Having diverse operations in multiple industries improves the likelihood that Sitnasuak will maintain consolidated profitability in the future, even if a business unit or two experience a decline in income (like in 2015). It wasn’t long ago (2009) when over 80% of Sitnasuak’s income was derived from a single business unit (Apparel Manufacturing). This over-allocation of income in one industry increased the probability of consolidated losses, which Sitnasuak experienced in 2010 when the Apparel Manufacturing group lost two of its three main contracts. The pie chart to the left shows that Sitnasuak’s income is allocated in a relatively equal manner between four main business units.

In addition to operations, Sitnasuak recorded some large “other” income transactions throughout 2015, which included $3,573,923 in 7(j) income, $1,293,407 in realized gains from the stock and bond portfolios, and $2,564,279 primarily from the sale of Banner Wind assets and 871 acres of land near the abandoned Rock Creek mine outside of Nome.
