SUMMER 2022

letter from

BOARD CHAIR & CEO

We hope you all had a successful subsistence season! Change of season is upon us and like our elders before us, we prepare and adapt according to the season.

We remember and honor elder wisdom, we share with a willing heart, and inclusion of family meant shared success; our lives are enriched as we continue to practice those valuable traits. In our decision making, we act in the best interest of Shareholders; we make informed decisions. We work together for the success of our corporation. We support and respect our leadership and our family of companies.

On occasion, we respectfully agree to disagree; we have differences but, in the end, we honor our Shareholders and act in your best interest.

Representation on behalf of the Shareholders at local, statewide, and national levels is constant. We practice our mission "To benefit Shareholders, protect our Land and its resources, and support our culture by maximizing the profitability of our corporation while upholding our Inupiaq values."

We encourage you to contact us if you have any questions or concerns. We are here to serve you.

Connect with us at our Corporate headquarters, Nome 907-387-1200; Anchorage 907-929-7000; or via the world wide web at www.snc.org.

Be safe, be well; we wish you and yours the best, always!

sitnasuak native corporation 49TH ANNUAL MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS

On June 25, 2022, we virtually held our 49th Annual Meeting of Shareholders with more than 100 Shareholders and Descendants participating on Zoom as well as watching the presentation live streamed from our website.

Community United Methodist Church of Nome, Inupiaq Choir welcomed shareholders with four translated gospel songs; the Elders Committee Chair, Helen Bell honored Susanne Toliver and Caleb Dotomain as the 2022 Elders of the Year; and proxy-prize winners were announced and posted on the Corporation's Facebook page. A full list of prize winners can also be found on page six of this newsletter. In addition to conducting a successful election and reporting Sitnasuak's 2021 financial performance, Shareholders learned about the success of our business units and the contributions we made to Shareholders and organizations – all promoting and supporting the mission and values of the Corporation. Shareholders were also given the opportunity to share comments and ask questions.

Management Report

Sitnasuak's CEO, Charles E. Fagerstrom provided the management report which highlighted SNC's financial progress in 2021. The report outlined how SNC's successful operations are leading to increased Shareholder benefits totaling over $4.4 million in 2021. Growth in Shareholder benefits was seen through the record high $9.50 per trust unit (share) Heritage Distribution and through the $1,000 Elder Benefit. With the establishment of the SNC Trust in 2018, Shareholders now benefit from tax-free distributions made through the SNC Trust. Beyond direct cash benefits to Shareholders, Mr. Fagerstrom also shared that the Corporation made nearly $200,000 in donations to local nonprofit organizations that promote community, social and cultural development including Alaska Native cultural instruction at the Nome-Beltz Middle/High School and the training of apprentice Alaska Native language teachers at the University of Alaska Fairbanks Northwest Campus, the construction of the new Thrift Shop in Nome that serves the communities of our region, the construction of a youth basketball court, as well as the Nome Emergency Shelter Team program that serves people of our region who are homeless. These contributions have been provided alongside bereavement assistance and Shareholder and Descendant scholarships. Looking into 2022, Mr. Fagerstrom shared that the management staff will continue working to realize the Corporation's vision to benefit Shareholders, protect our land and its resources, and support our culture by maximizing the profitability of our corporation while upholding our Inupiaq values.

2021 Financial Performance

As highlights from the financial presentation by CFO, Lesli Smith, Shareholder equity has increased substantially in both the corporation and SNC Trust and long-term debt has decreased significantly. As we experience fluctuations in market demand, our ability to manage our profit margin effectively has been a huge contribution to our profitability. Continuing our strategy of positioning our current businesses for profitability and sustainability, we are able to leverage our financial strength to make long term capital investments in our companies as well as diversify our business units through strategic acquisitions.

In addition, SNC received almost $6 million of Cares Act Funds that were distributed to our Shareholders. The Board directed the funds be distributed to Shareholders through the Direct Assistant Program and our staff worked diligently in a short amount of time to inform Shareholders of this opportunity and provide application assistance, especially to our Elders.

Election Results - New and Returning Board Members

This year, three board seats serving terms through the 52nd Annual Meeting were up for election. We achieved a quorum with 75,932 shares represented by proxy – a total of 39.9% of votes cast. Quyuana to everyone who submitted their proxies. Shareholders re-elected director Edna (Becka) Baker and elected two new Board Members, Andrew C. Miller, Jr., and Crystal Andersen-Booth, who have both previously served as SNC Board Directors. We would like to thank former directors Jaylene Wheeler and Louie Green, Jr. for their service to the Corporation.

a warm welcome to

NEW & CONTINUING DIRECTORS

EDNA (BECKA) BAKER

Edna (Becka) Baker is the eldest daughter of Stanley and Valerie Sobocienski and the granddaughter of Milton and Mary Adams and Helen (Castel) Stuart. Her upbringing by role models, such as her late Mother and Grandmother(s), who lived their lives upholding their traditional knowledge and values was instrumental to shaping who she is today. She was fortunate to be raised during a time where families all worked together; a time where an entire family was responsible for gathering enough food for the winter months to be able to share with others. Her and her husband John have raised their family in the community of Nome where they still reside.

CRYSTAL ANDERSEN-BOOTH

Crystal Andersen-Booth's Inupiaq name is Umalaaq after her grand mother, Elsie Karmun of Deering. Her parents are Stan Andersen of Nome and Penny and the late Pierre Boutet of Anchorage. Together, her and her husband Evan Booth are blessed with six children and two grand children.

Andrew C. Miller, Jr.

Andrew C. "Andy" Miller, Jr. is a lifelong Nome resident. He was born and raised in Nome. His parents were Hannah (Alexine) Miller of Golovin and White Mountain, and Andrew Miller, Sr., born in St. Michael and raised on the Yukon and Kuskokwim Rivers. Together with his wife, Mary (Keller), they raised their children Jared and Joan in Nome. He continues to reside in Nome, where he is the proud Papa of Maggie, Kellie, Alexa and Jack.

ELDERS OF THE YEAR

Susanne A. Toliver

"Susanne A. Toliver, most of you may know her as Susie, was born in King Island, Alaska on June 21, 1951, her parents are Helen & Simon Pushruk. She lived in King Island until she was 3-4 years old, when her parents moved her family to Nome. Susie's siblings are Anthony II, Gloria, Genevieve, Frank & Victoria. In the early 60's many King Islanders moved to Nome for the education of their youth... Susanne's family was one of them."

An excerpt from Susanne's bio.

Caleb E. Dotomain

"Ahkquagh, Caleb E. Dotomain was born August 9, 1943, to Tom Dotomain and Annie Kenick Dotomain in Mekoryuk on Nunivak Island. Caleb lived in Nunivak until 1956, when his family moved to Shaktoolik. He spent much of his early life there before moving to Nome for work in 1969. Caleb was raised in a large family with whom he learned to live his subsistence lifestyle of hunting and trapping land and marine mammals. Known as the youngest boat captain, he credits his father for teaching him everything he knows about the weather and the ocean current."

An excerpt from Caleb's bio.

The SNC Board of Directors is honored to recognize Susanne Toliver, and Caleb Dotomain as 2022 Elders of the Year. Quyanna for upholding and sharing our Inupiaq values while setting the example of dedication, strength and leadership. Read more about Susanne and Caleb by visiting snc.org!

sitnasuak announces partnership with the NATIONAL PARK FOUNDATION

On August 11, 2022, an event was held at the Sitnasuak Native Corporation (SNC) Nome office for the announcement of our partnership with the National Park Foundation (NPF) to enhance the visitor experience at the Bering Land Bridge National Preserve (BLBNP) in Nome. Thanks to the generous support of the Leona M. and Harry B. Helmsley Charitable Trust, more than $4.4 million in grant funding will go to support the renovation of the existing visitor center and the outdoor area to create a welcoming and inclusive space to share culturally relevant content through exhibits and digital media. This project will also create new and enhanced in-person and distance learning opportunities and strengthen relationships and engagement with Tribal communities.

SNC Board Director, Barbara Amarok gave the event welcome and SNC Shareholder Arlene Soxie provided the opening blessing song in Inupiaq. We also had an opportunity to hear some words by Walter Panzirer, a trustee from the Helmsley Charitable Trust as well as from the BLBNP Superintendent, Jeanette Koelsch who shared their excitement for this project and the collaboration that is to happen, not only with SNC but with the communities of Deering, Wales and Shishmaref.

"Our national parks provide opportunities for people from around the world as well as right here in Alaska to engage with nature and understand important history, both natural and human," said Walter Panzirer. "Helmsley is proud to again support the National Park Foundation to help enhance the visitor experience at what is more than a national park, but a national treasure."

NEW TEAM MEMBERS

Angeline DelReal, Office Assistant

SNC Descendant Angeline DelReal, also known as “Ang” or “Angie” joined Sitnasuk Native Corporation (SNC) in June 2022 as Office Assistant and Receptionist in Anchorage. Angeline is originally from Nome, Alaska and her parents are Bessie Barron of Nome and Albert Barron of Ironwood, Michigan.

Angeline comes to Sitnasuk with several years of customer service experience as well as knowledge in business management and ownership. Prior to joining the SNC team, she was a manager at a local restaurant as well as part owner of her own restaurant, The Gumbo House. In addition, she was the owner/operator of The DelReal Kitchen Food Truck. Angeline also held positions of Administrative Assistant at Alaska Native Medical Center, Hairdresser and Cashier at Alaska Commercial Company. With her vast experience working locally with the public and her business management skills, Angeline has a lot to contribute to our corporation.

Outside the office, you can find Angeline enjoying the outdoors camping, fishing, hiking, traveling, taking part in traditional cultural activities, and honoring her family and those before her.

Emily Weyiouanna, Shareholder Relations Assistant

Emily “Paizruuzruq” Weyiouanna joined Sitnasuk Native Corporation (SNC) Shareholder Team in May 2022 as Shareholder Relations Assistant in Nome. Emily is a Bering Straits Native Corporation Descendant, as well as a Shishmaref Native Corporation Shareholder and tribally enrolled with the Native Village of Shishmaref. Emily was born in Nome and raised in Shishmaref, where most of her family still resides. Her parents are Ardith Weyiouanna and the late Johnny Weyiouanna Sr. Emily is the youngest of seven siblings. Emily has two sons, Keith and Ned.

Emily moved to Nome three years ago to pursue new career paths. Previously, she worked as a Village Health Aide and has worked in the Health Care Industry for a number of years, she also has experience working in Tribal Relations.

Outside the office you can find Emily fishing, picking berries, and preparing traditional subsistence foods.

meet our summer intern

KARIS EVANS, LAND ASSISTANT

Descendant Karis Evans joined Sitnasuak Native Corporation (SNC) Land Department for this year's Summer Internship as Land Assistant. Karis is from Nome, Alaska. Karis' parents are Lucille Sands of Teller and David Evans of Nome. Karis Graduated from Nome-Beltz Highschool in May of 2022. Throughout High School, Karis took several dual-credit classes which taught about ANCSA Lands and Native Allotments.

"My dad used to work in the Land Department at Sitnasuak for many, many years so, I grew up learning about his job. My mom also works at a Native Corporation so understanding how Alaska Native Corporations work in correlation to our lands was introduced to me very early."

As Land Assistant at Sitnasuak for the summer, Karis is working alongside Charles Ellanna, Land & Resources Administrator to inform Shareholders and Non-Shareholders about updated policies, aid in doing field inspections, and mark out campsites and homesites.

"What I love about Sitnasuak is that I haven't stopped learning. I enjoy expanding my knowledge about our Land and want to be able to give back to my hometown after furthering my education. Wherever I go, I take pride in our region and people. This job is the start of my dream career of helping other people."

deadline: september 30, 2022

maintaining current SHAREHOLDER RECORDS

The Sitnasuak Native Corporation Shareholder Department maintains Shareholder records that include stock information, personal data and addresses, as well as guardian and custodian information that may be associated with shares. The department is responsible for transferring shares and also records the amount of dividends Shareholders receive. The department handles a large amount of information and maintains over 3,000 individual Shareholder files which is an ongoing and continuing effort by the department. The following information describes the types of records kept and their importance.

Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (ANCSA) Stock Wills

Taking care of a family means making sure they are looked after, even when a person is no longer around. A will is a legal document that states a person's wishes concerning the disposal of property, such as ANCSA stock, after death. Wills are an important part of life because they ensure a person's last wishes are known and followed. As years pass, a will should be updated to reflect life changes, such as a marriage, divorce, additional family members or death of an heir. A current stock will on file with Sitnasuak, or other Alaska Native Corporations, makes certain that stock is inherited by the people the Shareholder chooses.

Gifting ANCSA Stock

SNC Shareholders have the option of gifting their ANCSA stock to their loved ones. Shareholders are only allowed to gift ANCSA stock to children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nephews, nieces, brothers and sisters. This person must be an Alaska Native, or descendant of an Alaska Native.

Maintaining Current Shareholder Records

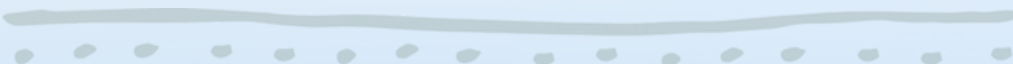

It is important for Shareholders to keep all information and records, including a will, current with SNC. For example, if a Shareholder recently changed their name due to a marriage or other reason, SNC's shareholder department should be notified in writing to update the information and include a copy of the relevant legal documentation such as an ID card, marriage certificate, divorce decree, adoption decree, etc. authorizing the change.

It is also important to update an address after a move. Failing to update an address with the Shareholder Department could result in missing out on important information because Shareholder addresses are used for mailing Venture newsletters, annual meeting election mailings, dividend checks, data-gathering documents for stock transfers and other important SNC materials and information. Much of the information SNC mails to Shareholders describes opportunities and benefits for Shareholders. If an address is not correct, a Shareholder may miss information that could benefit themselves or their family.

If you may need to update your address, please fill out the form within this Venture and send back, if you'd like to complete this process electronically please use the MySitnasuak App or contact our Shareholder Relations Staff for further assistance in Nome at 907.387.1200, Anchorage at 907.929.7000 or email shareholder@snc.org.
